YOUR FILES, answering BACK

Add the documents you already have. RAGA reads them and becomes an expert on exactly that material, so you can ask questions instead of searching page by page.

MADE TO BE understood

Everything you need to get answers from your own material, and nothing you have to learn first.

Ask in plain words

Type a question the way you would ask a colleague. No search syntax, no folders to dig through.

Every answer shows its source

Numbered references point to the exact passage, so you can check before you trust.

Summaries in one click

Get a short summary, a study guide or a list of common questions from your own files.

You choose what counts

Switch documents on or off and RAGA answers using only the ones you picked.

Works with your files

PDF, Word, Excel, text, web pages and more, all in one notebook.

Keep what matters

Save good answers as notes and come back to them later.

HOW IT works

Three steps. No setup, no training.

1

Add your documents

Drop in files, paste text or add a web link. They stay together in one notebook.

2

Ask a question

Type anything, or tap a suggested question to get started.

3

Check the sources

Open any numbered reference to see the exact passage that supports the answer.

WHO IT'S for

Anyone who has more reading than time.

Students

Turn lecture notes and textbooks into a study guide.

Teams

Find policy answers without waiting on someone else.

“What will the exam cover?”

“How much leave do new staff get?”

Researchers

Compare reports, papers and survey results quickly.

Business owners

Make sense of contracts, feedback and meeting notes.

“Where do these two studies disagree?”

“What did customers ask for most?”

NO GUESSING. No made-up facts.

RAGA only answers from what you give it. When your documents don’t cover a question, it says so and points you to what it did find.

I couldn’t find that in your sources.

The selected documents don’t mention parental leave. One file could not be read: Benefits Overview.pdf.
